5 RESPONSIBILITIES

The CTB shall be responsible for the formulation of strategic programmes and work plans for technology research and development in the area of European EEE space components. It shall also be responsible for the harmonisation and co-ordination of the collectively funded European space component and technology research and the related development, evaluation, qualification and quality assurance activities.

Detailed aims within these broad objectives shall achieve:

- Identification and anticipation of user needs.
- Maximum co-ordination of all space component technology research and development.
- Maximum coverage of all required component technologies.
- Maintenance of a practical awareness of both the technical and commercial trends of relevant component technologies.

6 PROGRAMME OF WORK

6.1 PROGRAMME MANAGEMENT

One of the key outputs from the CTB shall be a programme of work extending up to five years which shall address both the long term, strategic objectives and the short term component technology needs of the European space community. The CTB programme of work is referred to as the Strategic Plan.

The CTB shall propose a breakdown of the plan into dossiers along technological lines in accordance with priorities set by the SCSB. Each technology dossier shall include a number of technology programmes. Each technology dossier shall be placed under the responsibility of a recognised authority in the field, coming from a member organisation and designated as the dossier coordinator. The Strategic Plan and its constituent dossiers shall be approved by the SCSB. Throughout the course of its work, the CTB shall keep the programme of work under review and shall consult the SCSB regarding changes to any of the elements in the dossiers.

The CTB programme of work shall form a major input to the SCSB programme. The factors that influenced the selection of the proposed technology programmes shall be detailed, together with the knowledge base used by the CTB, particularly in selecting the longer-term elements of the programme.

To assist the CTB to harmonise tasks and projects, the ESCC Members shall provide details of any separate programmes which they are conducting or proposing, with the aim of integrating them into the overall ESCC work plan. ESCC observers are encouraged to provide similar information for their programmes.

The CTB shall use written procedures covering its selection and submission of technology programmes and the associated activities. In particular, provision shall be made for:

- Iterative assessment and final selection of programme elements.
- Use of a consultation process to ensure understanding of the European space community needs.
- Identification of proposals as suitable candidates for submission to the EC.
- Selection and use of any specialist teams.
- Maintenance of links with the separately funded and managed projects conducted by the CTB members.
- Regular review of the work in progress.
- Methods for both progress and final reporting.

6.2 ANNUAL PLANS

Annual plans shall be used as a basis to formulate the ongoing CTB Strategic Plan. Included in this shall be the preparation of the AQP for specific approval by the SCSB. Although the CTB technology programmes may contain individual project time scales of up to five years, each technology dossier shall be updated in the Strategic Plan and be subject to annual SCSB approval. In its continuation of longer-term projects, or the provision of plans and arrangements for them, the CTB shall take appropriate account of current project findings and developments.

6.3 RESOURCES

The CTB activities concerning the AQP, the Strategic Plan and its annual updates, will be led by experts that the CTB has named as being responsible for each technology dossier. The experts shall be selected by the CTB from qualified candidates proposed by the participating organisations. Participation in this role shall be governed by the Charter and in particular by Section 7 thereof. Participating organisations contributing the services of an expert shall ensure that the person can effectively carry out the assigned activities.

6.4 IMPLEMENTATION

Contributing authorities may stipulate specific management arrangements for the tasks which they fund. Where this is not the case, the CTB shall be responsible for the management of its programmed tasks, which can be delegated as appropriate. Guidelines shall be formalised by the CTB representatives covering the management of the technology programmes and associated tasks. As a minimum, the guidelines shall cover:

- The degree and method of CTB approval which is necessary before work is started on a task or project.
- The provision of information to the CTB regarding the nature and content of any contract placed for the task or project.
- The methods and frequency of progress and other reporting to the CTB.
- The assessment and review of results and their effect upon other work planned or in progress.

7 SYSTEM PROMOTION

CTB contact with external organisations will be associated with the development and update of the Strategic and Annual Plans. Liaisons which could lead to promotion of the ESCC shall be undertaken with SCSB approval. The rules and guidelines governing the SCSB links with external groups shall be applied, as appropriate, to the CTB activities.

The scope of tasks and responsibilities for ad hoc working groups, and the rules that apply to their work, shall be clearly specified through written terms of reference. In addition these shall address requirements for planning activities and progress and final reporting. The intended life of the group shall be stated.
